THE BOWMAN GRAY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
WAKE FOREST COLLEGE

The School of Medicine, established at Wake Forest in 1902, and renamed the School of Medical Sciences in 1937, operated as a two-year medical school until 1941, when it moved to Winston-Salem, North Carolina, as a four-year medical college. When the school expanded to a four-year institution, it was renamed The Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College, in recognition of the benefactor who made the expansion possible, the late Bowman Gray, of Winston-Salem.

WHITE Matter

THE SCHOOL OF NURSING
of the
NORTH CAROLINA BAPTIST HOSPITAL

The School of Nursing was established here in 1923. Under the leadership of Miss Edna Heinzerling, who only this year resigned, the school has grown from an entering enrollment of only fifteen in 1923 to one of over half a hundred last year. The Nurses' Home was built in 1928 and dedicated to Dr. Blanche Barrus. In 1936, eighteen bedrooms were added and in 1944 an addition of thirty-six bedrooms and two floors devoted to the Educational Department was made.

Preface . . .

This year the Bowman Gray School of Medicine is passing the first major milestone of its existence. During the past decade, its leaders have molded it into one of the leading clinical and research medical centers of the world. This was accomplished from a nucleus of a well-established two-year medical school and the very far sighted and generous Bowman Gray benefaction. But, most certainly, this is only the alpha. Even now, expansion is in progress in the facilities available to the medical school and hospital. We can be sure that as we reach every succeeding milestone, we will be able to look back with ever increasing pride at the glorious strides that will have been taken by this institution.

DEDICATION

Dr. George T. Harrell, Jr. has been selected by the class of 1951 as a man most worthy to receive the dedication of our annual. This choice has been made in recognition of his efforts as head of the Department of Medicine to deal fairly with the students and all under his authority, his astute clinical knowledge and his earnest endeavors to impart that knowledge to the students, his emphasis upon the scientific method, and above all his intelligent and effective pioneering in the field of medical education.

Though his position does not entail a close personal relationship with the students, we know that his conscientious and meticulous attention to the many details of our medical education as well as his preoccupation with the broad outlines of our medical curriculum has eased many of the rough spots and given us a much fuller insight into the broad field of medicine.

It is certain that Dr. Harrell will remain an inspiration for us throughout our future medical careers as a man who believes in and strives to practice the best in the field of medicine. May we in attempting to emulate him and his teachings give a fuller and higher service to our chosen field of endeavor, our country, and to our fellow man.

For some time it has been the custom to have personal interviews with the prospective medical students for the next school year. But during the past few years an attempt to have these interviews for large groups of applicants on the same day has been made. At the same time mass orientation is carried out with guided tours of the medical school, hospital, Graylyn and Reynolda. Lunch has been furnished by the fraternities. Thus the pre-medical student applying here is able to get a very good insight to the various phases of medical school life. All criticism has been favorable and this program will doubtless become a school policy.

EXPANSION PROGRAM

Working plans of the new South Wing at the North Carolina Baptist Hospital are just about complete, and construction is expected to begin in 1951.

The 150-bed addition to present facilities will enable the hospital to admit 5,000 more patients per year and its Out Patient Department to accommodate 50,000 more visits per year. Bed capacity will be increased to 450, including bassinets.

Kitchen and dining rooms designed to handle more than 3,000 meals per day will be constructed on the ground level. The main, or ground, floor will also contain a postoffice, with 600 boxes, an electroencephalograph room, medical record rooms, and a central supply room.

The first floor will accommodate the new X-ray department to serve both in- and out-patients with five radiographic rooms, chest examination room, dental X-ray room, four X-ray therapy rooms, a room especially constructed for radioisotope therapy, stenographic and filing space, conference rooms, radiologists' and reading room, reception and waiting rooms. Enlarged quarters for the heart station will also be on this floor.

The second floor will consist of rooms for surgical patients and, like other patient floors, will have oxygen and suction piped from a central source to other areas.

The third floor, devoted to medical patients will have an eleven-bed special psychiatric section for disturbed patients, with Baptist Hospital, thus becoming one of the leaders in the state in the trend toward treatment of psychiatric patients in general hospitals. Patients will be treated here during acute stages of illness and be transferred to mental hospitals for convalescence and rehabilitation. Specially-designed nurses' stations will be a feature of the third floor which will also have a treatment and admitting room for patients, laboratories, a seminar room and teaching center.

The fourth floor will accommodate a complete, new obstetrical delivery suite of three delivery rooms, four labor rooms, preparation room, laboratory rooms for nurses and doctors, nurses' station, workroom, and utility room. Present obstetrical quarters will be utilized as additional nursery space.

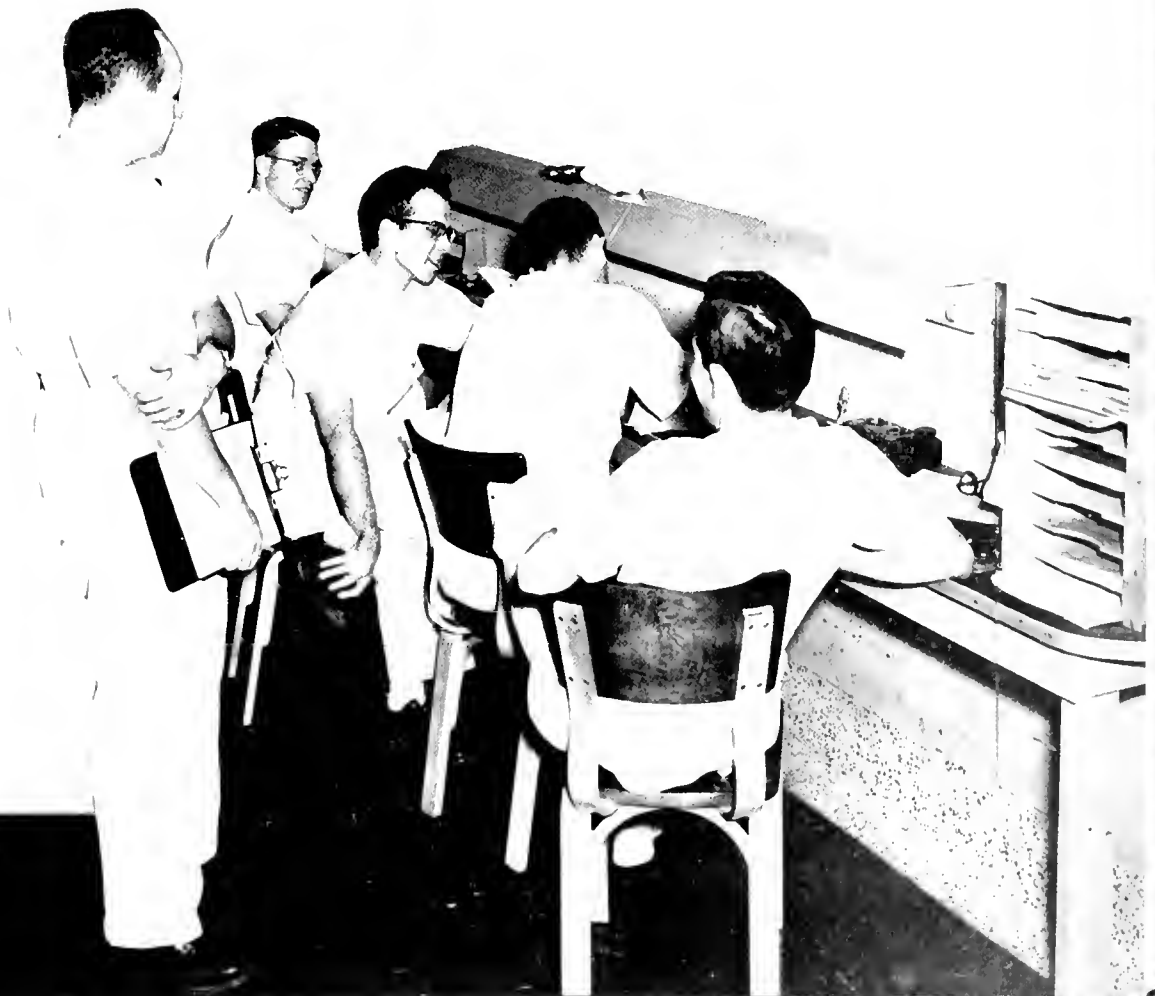

Four major operating rooms will be included in the new operating suite on the fifth floor with a preparation room and sub-sterilizing room for rapid sterilizers. A helpful innovation at the hospital will be two four-bed recovery rooms adjacent to the operating rooms where patients will be taken directly from operating rooms and closely observed during the early post-operative periods.

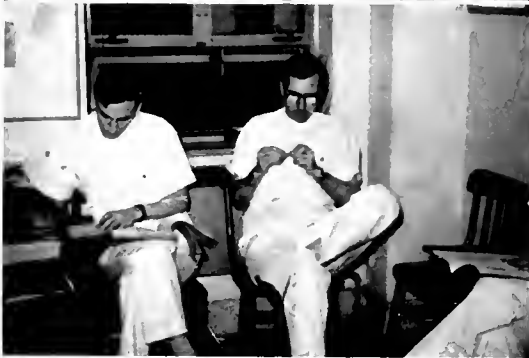

Air conditioning will be installed in as much of the new building as funds will allow. The building itself will be of brick and Indiana limestone construction in keeping with other hospital buildings and will be seven stories high—the five floors and the ground floor described above and a basement for storage and maintenance. Three new high-speed elevators will be installed in the new wing.

Extensive remodeling is also planned in the present building to enlarge services and relocate activities in relation to the new facilities. It is estimated that construction will require 18 months after work is actually started.

RETROSPECT

IN the fall of '47 the "Major" saw us come. Into his anatomic grist mill we moved with as much reserved excitement as is permitted to a group that is predominately veteran and married. But young and old, married or not, as we looked around at our new classmates and moved rapidly through the events of that first day we were all aware of our sense of destiny and of the fact that Bowman Gray represented the final step of our academic ambition—even Turpin felt it.

So the Major took us and tempered our steel and we "pooshed on" from the "course of the radial nerve" to the "posterior relations of the vena cava." In his quiz sections we grew more tightly welded as a group and there, of course, Blackmon learned that "all Gaul is divided into three parts."

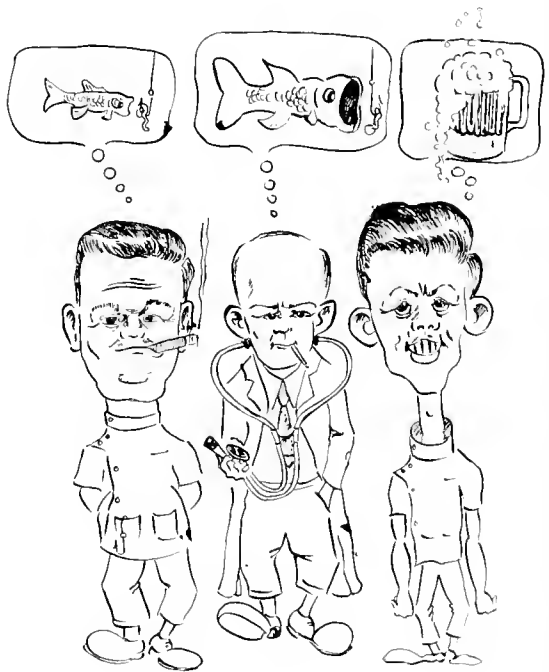

With the winter came our course in ping-pong—no, that was biochemistry, wasn't it? But between Hollandworth's biting off his gastric tube and trying to digest it, and the experiments laboriously carried out at the double matches in the locker room there was little time for Camillo's "phospho-leepeeds" except to take all that good information down and file it away.

Then came the spring and we were really learning medicine as Dr. Fulton told us why the spirochete resembles a bedspring and about "the young man from Back Bay—who thought syphilis just went away." And in physiology we learned what an electrical current felt like and how a dog reacts to drugs. It never ceased to be amazing just how rapidly some of these experiments terminated.

During that first and only summer that the class was free the activities of this group do not bear public recording but, on request, the information will be sent in a sealed personal letter.

In our Sophomore year Dr. Moon made us his "friends" and with "binocular vision we explored a new terrain." And though he didn't "draw in all the leukocytes" the words and processes of medicine acquired meaning. Physiology and pharmacology proved to us that we are the cheapest type of guinea pig as we stuck needles in ourselves, froze and exhausted ourselves, and finally stretched out in the constant temperature room to receive a pachydermal dose of Etamon. Dr. Green explained that he used medical students because "it shouldn't happen to a dog."

At last the final quarter of the second year arrived and we learned to hold our shoulders erect from the "Mawster" in Preventive Medicine and we learned to pronounce "intes-ti'nal" and "ca-pill'ary" from the "Missus" in Parasitology. Besides a smattering of physical diagnosis and hematology there were some good picnics and ball games (with the bases almost as loaded as those trying to run them!). And who knows what would have happened at Peak's stag party if Jones hadn't "conked out" at 8 P. M.?

Juniors! The lovely, gleaming, spotless whites blossomed forth and the patients shrank before the onrush of bright eyes and brighter instruments. But we caught on fast and soon learned that you should jovially clap Dave Cayer on the back when you pass him in the hall—always cut your cuticles with a razor blade at medical orals—airplanes from Dr. Elbert—fish from Dr. Bob—nesting habits of the ground birds of the Outer Antipodes from "Fuzzy" Taylor—all in all, we got a well rounded education. Each event, each department, specialty and instructor demands its book of reminiscences: orals, lab work, the stalwarts from U.N.C., North Dakota and Mississippi, the John B. Garrett Memorial Hospital, O.P.D., C.P.C., how we all became dermatologists, and, through it all, "Oh, how we loved Deaton." We got our football tickets and we got our graduation where we wanted it. And between seconal, d-desoxy and golden brew the whole darn class has stumbled through.

In seriousness, despite our differences and our "characters" we have lived and felt closer to this group that we call our class than to any other we shall know. We have been a close knit group without malice. The impression of the faculty is that our class is summed up as "balance and cooperation." With just pride we consider the record that our class has set in that, though members of the class have left through illness or choice, ours is the only class in which there has not been an academic failure.

In these four years we invested much of ourselves in one another. Perhaps in another year there will be another gathering of the clan and we can take some interest from our investment when Sherrill's tenor and Jones' bass tune up with Wadsworth on his trumpet, Corey on the drums, Christian and McLean with their "ukes," Herman and his clarinet—and, of course, Bob Moore with his accordion—as we carry the harmony of "From the tables at the Steak House

To the place where Herby dwells . . ."

Until that time . . .

Activities

THE Student Council is the executive agent of the student body of the medical school. It functions through the directives of the Constitution and keeps it up to date by making any necessary amendments. The student activities are supported by the two major arms, the Dance Committee and the Athletic Committee. This year the former group arranged the Senior Ball, and the latter was instrumental in running football, basketball and softball teams which competed in city leagues. New measures were introduced to the constitution to consolidate many of the small social functions into more pan-student body entertainment. The council also carried the opinion of the students to the proper persons in time of controversial matters involving the students and some outside group. These and many other duties were very adequately executed by this year's Student Council to culminate quite a successful year.

THE Journal of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine is the official organ of the student body. It has the distinction of being the only publication in the medical literature produced solely by medical students. It is composed mainly of subject reviews of the literature by students in meeting requirements of the school curriculum. However, many original case reports and some original experimental data compiled by various students are also published. In addition to the medical writings the Journal carries the pertinent news of the Baptist Hospital and the medical school alumni. The circulation is far-reaching in this country and includes many foreign lands. Its popularity among the medical profession is well exemplified by the many requests for reprints of articles published.

THE annual of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine is late. This fact comes not as a surprise to the average student; however, we hope the book will not be too great a disappointment after this extra time of waiting. We sincerely trust that a precedent of tardiness will not be set. We would like to express our deepest appreciation to the Department of Illustration for their generous cooperation. Also, may we thank Miss Katheryn Davis and Mrs. Alice Stallings for their much needed assistance in the publication.

Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society

The Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society was founded by William W. Root at the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois, Chicago, in 1902. The Society is a non-secret, College Medical Honor Society, membership to which is based entirely upon scholarship, moral qualifications being satisfactory. The Beta Chapter of North Carolina had its inception when installation exercises were held at the Old Town Club, Winston-Salem, on November 19, 1943 with Dean C. C. Carpenter presiding, Dr. Walter L. Bierring, President of the National Alpha Omega Alpha, presented the charter to Dr. Herbert M. Vann, who accepted on behalf of the medical school and the candidates for initiation.

The aims of the society are the promotion of scholarship and research in medical schools, the encouragement of a high standard of character and conduct among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of high attainment in medical science of practice and related fields.

The Society is composed of regular members consisting of medical men and women who as under graduates have given promise of becoming leaders in their profession or who later have attained such leadership, and honorary members consisting of physicians who have attained distinction in any worthy line of human endeavor, and of persons, whether physicians or not, who have gained unusual recognition in fields related to medicine.

Preface...

This year for the North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing has been greater than ever before. The past quarter century has seen it spring from a small beginning to the large, well-organized school it now is. One of the leading schools of the state, it is rapidly becoming nationally recognized. We look with assurance to the succeeding years in which this school shall be even more influential in the progress of professional nursing.

THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

DEDICATION

For her understanding aid while working on the wards, her willingness to give of her time as an instructor, and her thoughtfulness as our sponsor, we, the 1951
Senior Class of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital
School of Nursing, do sincerely dedicate this issue of the White Matter to Miss Eva Dene Camer.

OUR PIN

Our school pin, which was designed by Miss Edna Heinzerling for the first graduating class in 1923, is simple in design and beautiful in colors of black and gold. The lamp on the pin is a Nightingale lamp, signifying the "light of nursing." It is worn proudly by all graduates of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing.

CLASS HISTORY

Ever remember seeing happy, innocent and sort of bewildered looking faces? August 31, 1948 brought exactly sixty-four of these to N. C. B. H. with big hopes of becoming future nurses. Some have drifted into the field of matrimony, but fifty-four of our original class are still together with four transfers from Long's Hospital in Statesville added our Senior year. I start from the beginning, the day when that distinguished title of P. C. was placed upon our heads. Along with this went books, books, and — more books, with dem bones scattered here and there. Anatomy was supposed to teach us the "why and where-a-bouts" of these but occasionally we slipped. Nights found us in our rooms by seven p. m. with eyes fixed on blank pages and thoughts turned toward that particular someone, a sandwich or coke by our side. Day by day our educational field expanded and we became more confused as new fissures found their way into those sixty-four crowded brains. Nursing Arts, Chemistry, Pharmacology and Microbiology were our nightly subjects to be studied, with Sarah Jane as a side attraction on which we could demonstrate our baths, shampoos, massages and even enemas. Heavenly scents could be smelled when entering our labs as we so freely used our powder during our massage classes, and mummies were made all draped in bandages — spiral reverse, gauntlet, and other twists that we ourselves invented.

We were beginning to recognize familiar faces by this time and decided to organize our class. Our democratic abilities were demonstrated when we elected: President, Peggy Tatem; Vice-President, Betty Leonard; Secretary, Lena Foster; Treasurer, Billie Jean Smith; Council Representatives, Virginia Best and Betty Orders. Despite the fact we had all those free weekends, books seemed to be our main source of entertainment. Occasionally around midnight a gay clamor of coke bottles was heard as a "strike" was made with a tennis ball. Time passed quickly, however, with our 8 a. m.

to 5:30 p. m. classes and Thanksgiving brought us our first holidays — four whole days!

Books again faced us on our return trip as we began giving complete a. m. care with enemas on the side (the left side). Miss Chase was carefully laid aside for the next group as we began giving medications under supervision. We gave our first hypo to our roommates, not knowing whether she would live to tell it or not.

Although studies occupied our minds twenty-four hours a day, we managed to have our first class party as Christmas holidays drew near. Halls, classrooms and the rumpus room were turned into ball rooms with colorful touches of red and green paper, mistletoe, and holly placed here and there. Not only did this season bring parties but a whole week of real nursing duty and another week of vacation. We made many amusing mistakes during this first week on the wards, many times finding ourselves in the Diet Kitchen with a bedpan in our hands. What would we have done had not the educational department kept us hovered under their wings? Final exams slipped upon us as midnight oil burned while we racked our brains studying. Our efforts were repaid, though, as we proudly stepped out of our seats on that March 1, 1949 to have a white cap added to our blue and white uniform. Not only were we outstanding as the largest class ever to receive caps at N. C. B. H. (sixty in number) but also as a class with a very high average. Four girls had averages over ninety-four, and almost half of the class with averages of ninety or above.

Although we were aware of the responsibility placed upon us with the presentation of a cap, little did we realize the weight of this responsibility until eight or more patients were placed under our care. Our first classmates began going on night duty at this time and before we realized it summer had passed and September, with its classes, came again. Best of all, we were now Juniors with thoughts of raising money for this occasion which was the Junior-Senior Prom. Betty Orders led this group as president; Marcelle Toney, Vice-President; Ann Whitaker, Secretary; Blanche Weeks, Treasurer; and Peggy Tatem, Council Representative. Little sisters were welcomed when we displayed in a talent show for them. Lena Foster and Betty Orders represented the whole student body at the N. C. State Nurses Association in High Point. During this week eager bodies hustled about as we prepared for our Halloween Carnival with Shirley Richardson being crowned queen by Dr. Bob McMillan. Despite the change of plans due to bad weather, it was a great success. We were adding to that bank account.

Thanksgiving came and went with most of us working on the wards. The selling of magazines was attempted with some success. Money became our password and people began by-passing us. During Christmas only a lucky few went home, and the New Year brought us many pleasant events. Dot Inscore, a member of our class, was elected as first president of the State Student Nurses Association which met in High Point. "The Hasty Heart" found us here and there selling tickets to this wonderful movie. As a result of all this work, the evening of April 29th was scented with the fragrance of flowers and graced with formal attire. This was the evening of our Junior-Senior Prom! Art Lopez and his orchestra at the Robert E. Lee Hotel furnished the setting. The only dark spot on the evening was that Dr. Eben Alexander, our class sponsor, had to operate on some unfortunate person and arrived late.

Slowly we drifted from this aura of happiness and as May ended classes for us, it brought us a C. S. U. picnic at Miller Park, and three glorious weeks of vacation. Our class became divided for the first time as ten of our girls left for the "Hill." Miss Rhoda Ann Gardner left us without a class sponsor when she married Buddy in June. Miss Eva Dene Comer, was elected our class sponsor for our Senior year.

That great day finally came which always seemed so far in the future, as fifty-five of us proudly revealed our black bands distinguishing us as Seniors. (the four transfers from Long's had already received theirs). Plans were made for the future as fraternity pins and diamonds began flashing around. Members of our class became leaders of the student body. Billie Smith, President of our student body; Peggy Tatem, President of C. S. U.; Ann Whitaker, Treasurer of Student Government; Binky Turner, Secretary of Student Government; Frances Nixon, Editor of the Year-book with Woody Shoaf as Business Manager. Class officers were: Helen Miller, President; Ann Whitaker, Vice-President; Margaret Jenkins, Secretary; and Shirley Richardson, Treasurer.

More little sisters were welcomed and our first group returned from Dix Hill as the second group departed. September brought classes for half of us as the other half struggled through eight to eleven hours of duty. We attended the State Nurses Associational meeting, which was held here in Winston-Salem, and we also attended the first meeting of the State Student Nurses Association to hear Dot preside. Time marched on as we saw a long time dream of a square dance on the tennis court come true, a weiner roast at Miller Park when the weiners were lost, Dot representing us in a popularity contest, a Senior breakfast of waffles before the third group left for the "Hill", choosing our white uniforms and talking of graduation, being the first classes to have graduation in August despite the loss of all the trimmings, and many other things which have made our class outstanding and one which no one could forget if they ever knew it. The history of this class has only begun, in years to come supervisors, directors of nursing, head nurses, or even housewives will have become a part of the Class of 1951.
